

Welcome to the Co-operative!

In a historic meeting, the members of Hay Communications voted in favour of expanding membership to all eligible customers of the Co-operative.

Any customer served by Hay Communications' fibre, coax or copper networks can now be a member of the co-operative, whether they subscribe to television, internet or telephone.

There are many details to work out to implement this change but you will hear more from us soon!

Progressive changes are happening at your local co-operative! The Co-op way of thinking is different than private or publicly traded companies. We think you'll like it.

Did You Know It's Easier to Switch Your Cell Service Provider?

The CRTC¹ recently issued a ruling that prohibits cell providers from locking a device to a specific network or charging a fee for unlocking.

If you want to switch your cell provider, just call your current provider and they must provide you with the unlock code for free. (Note: when switching to Hay, there is no need to unlock a Bell Mobile phone since Hay uses Bell's Network)

Don't cancel your service when you call. When your phone number is ported (moved) to the other provider, that will cancel your service. If you cancel, we cannot get your number.

Now that you know, contact us and see how we can get you bundling discounts on your monthly cell bill. Up to 15% every month.

CRTC¹ is the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission
